S. T.--1860--X.

Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, torpid fever, constipation, &c., deserve to suffer if they will not try the celebrated PLANTATION BITTERS, which are now recommended by the highest medical authorities, and are warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. They are exceedingly agreeable, perfectly pure, and must supersede all other tonics where a healthy, gentle stimulant is required.

They purify, strengthen and invigorate.
They create a healthy appetite.
They are an antidote to change of water and diet.
They strengthen the system and enliven the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.

They make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya Bark, wintergreen, sassafras, roots and herbs, all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix rum. For particulars, see circulars and testimonials around each bottle.

Beware of impostors. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U. S. stamp unmutilated over the cork with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. ☞See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. ☞Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in bulk, is an impostor. Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U. S. Law, and will be so prosecuted by us. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters, from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

Have you a hurt child or a lame horse? Use the Mexican Mustang Liniment.

For rheumatism, neuralgia, stiff joints, stings and bites, there is nothing like the Mexican Mustang Liniment.

For spavined horses, the poll evil, ringbone and sweeny, the Mexican Mustang Liniment never fails.

For wind-galls, scratches, big-head and splint, the Mexican Mustang Liniment is worth its weight in gold.

Cuts, bruises, sprains and swellings, are so common and certain to occur in every family, that a bottle of this Liniment is the best investment that can be made.

It is more certain than the doctor—it saves time in sending for the doctor—it is cheaper than the doctor, and should never be dispensed with.

"In lifting the kettle from the fire, it tipped over and scalded my hands terribly. * * * The Mustang Liniment extracted the pain, caused the sore to heal rapidly, and left very little scar.

CHAS. FOSTER, 420 Broad street, Philada.

Mr. S. Litch, of Hyde Park, Vt., writes: "My horse was considered worthless, (spavin,) but since the use of the Mustang Liniment, I have sold him for $150. Your Liniment is doing wonders up here."

It is a most delightful Hair Dressing.
It eradicates scurf and dandruff.
It keeps the head cool and clean.
It makes the hair rich, soft and glossy.
It prevents the hair turning gray and falling off.
It restores hair upon prematurely bald heads.

This is just what Lyon's Kathairon will do. It is pretty—it is cheap—durable. It is literally sold by the carload, and yet its almost incredible demand is daily increasing, until there is hardly a country store that does not keep it, or a family that does not use it.

Heimstreet's inimitable Hair Coloring is not a dye. All instantaneous dyes are composed of lunar caustic, and more or less destroy the vitality and beauty of the hair. This is the original Hair Coloring, and has been growing in favor over twenty years. It restores gray hair to its original color by gradual absorption, in a most remarkable manner. It is also a beautiful hair dressing. Sold in two sizes—50 cents and $1—by all dealers.

SONG OF SUMMER.

BY HENRY H. CLEMENTS.

Leaf by leaf is summer creeping,
Flower by flower her glory reaping—
Harvest of the rolling spheres;
Cloud by cloud the sky is freighted,
And to every bud belated
They have steep'd in dewy tears.

Day by day the flocks are keeping
Watch upon the silent hills,
And the noon breeze there is sleeping
To the cradle song of rills.
Beam by beam the sun is stealing
Into hearts of all the flowers,
And those crimson hearts revealing
Something that's akin in ours.

Bird and bee have spread the tidings
Meadoward in golden swarms,
And the season's first rude chidings
All things worship, o'en the flower
Folds at eve its crimson palms.

Month by month the moon's intrusion,
As a sceptre in the dark,
Moves in phantom-like collusion
All the vernal bloom to mark;
And the azure arch of hours
Measures out the Summer's dowers.

Night by night the sea of darkness,
Drifting shoreward to the sun,
Marks the earth with silent beauty
Ere the dusky round is run;
And the eye beholds in waking
Now perfections just begun.

Pulse by pulse our life is fleeting
Where unclouded mornings beam—
Down the vale of years retreating
Like a white mist o'er a stream;
Soon a grave-mist will be wailing
All things in a long death-dream!

How he Came to be Married.

It may be funny, but I've done it. I've got a rib and a baby. Shadows departed—oyster stews and brandy cocktails, cigar boxes, bootjacks, absconding shirt buttons, whist and demijohn. Shadows present—hoop skirts, bandboxes, ribbons, garters, long stockings, juvenile dresses, tin trumpets, little willow chair, cradles, bibs, sugar teats, paregoric, hive syrup, rhubarb, senna, salts, squills, and doctor's bills. I'll just tell you how I got caught.

I was always the most bashful fellow you ever did see, and it was kinder in my line to be taken with the shakes every time I saw a pretty girl approaching me, and I would cross the street any time rather than face one. It was not because I didn't like the critters, for if I were behind the fence looking through a knot hole, I could not look long enough. Well, my sister Lib gave a party one night, and I started away from home, because I was too bashful to face the music.

I hung around the house, whistling "Old Dan Tucker," dancing to keep my feet warm, watching the heads bobbing up and down behind the window curtain, and wishing the thundering party would break up, so I could get to my room. I soon smoked a bunch of cigars, and as it was getting late and mighty uncomfortable, I concluded to shin up the door post.

No sooner said than done, and I soon found myself snug in bed.

"Now," says I, "let her rip! Dance till your wind gives out!" And cuddling down under the quilts, Morpheus grabbed me. I was dreaming of soft-shell crabs and stewed tripe, and having a good time, when somebody knocked at the door and woke me up. "Rap" again. I laid low. "Rap, rap, rap!" Then I heard a whispering, and knew there was a whole raft of girls outside. Then Lib rings out:

"Jack, are you there?"

"Yes," says I.

Then came a roar of laughter.

"Let us in," said she.

"I won't," said I. "Can't you let a fellow alone?"

"Are you in bed?" says she.

"I am," said I.

"Get out," says she.

"I won't," said I.

Then came another laugh.

By thunder! I began to get riled up.

"Get out you petticoated scarecrows," cried I. "Can't you get a beau without hauling a fellow out of bed? I won't go home with you—I won't, so you may clear out."

Then throwing a boot at the door, I felt better. But presently I heard a still small voice, very much like Lib's and it said:

"Jack, you'll have to get up for the girl's things are there."

Oh, mercy what a pickle! Think of me in bed, all covered up with muffs, shawls, bonnets, nets, and cloaks, and twenty girls outside the door waiting to get in! If I had stopped to think, I should have undoubtedly swooned upon the spot. As it was I rolled out among the bonnet ware and ribbons in a hurry. Smash went the millinery in every direction. I had to dress in the dark—for there was a crack in the door, and girls peep—and the way I fumbled about was death on straw hats. The critical moment came. I opened the door and found myself right among the women. "Oh, my leghorn!" cried one. "My dear, darling winter velvet!" cried another, and they pitched in. They pulled me this way and that, boxed my ears, and one bright little piece—Sal, her name was—put her arms right around my neck, and kissed me right on the lips. Human nature couldn't stand that, and I gave her as good as she sent. It was the first time I ever got the taste, and it was powerful good. I believe I could have kissed that girl from Julius Cæsar to the fourth of July.

"Jack," said she, "we are sorry to disturb you, but won't you see me home?"

"Yes, I will," said I.

And I went home with her, and somehow or other I became cured of bashfulness, and Sally is now my "rib," and the mother of my baby.

The Trial of Surratt.

On Monday July 1st, the trial of Surratt was resumed.

The cross examination of Lewis J. Weichman was continued, and several new facts, principally in regard to Mrs Surratt's connection with the conspiracy, were brought out. Among other things the witness stated that on the morning after the assassination Miss Anna Surratt said that the death of Abraham Lincoln was "nothing more than the death of a nigger in the army."

Dr McMillian, late surgeon of the British steamship Peruvian, testified that in September, 1865, Surratt sailed from Montreal for Londonderry in that ship, under the name of McCart. Before the ship sailed the prisoner seemed to be afraid that detectives were after him; but during the voyage he boasted a great deal about some deed that he had done, and which he said would make witness stare if he knew of it. Surratt said that he had received large sums of money from Benjamin, the rebel Secretary of State; and Beverly Tucker and Gen. Ripley were on the tug which conveyed him to the Peruvian. Surratt was disguised when he went on board of the ship, but before reaching the other side of the Atlantic he became confident of his safety, and made a number of important revelations. Among other things Surratt related that while traveling from Richmond to Washington, with four or five other persons, he and his companions shot several half-starved Union soldiers who were endeavoring to make their escape. When within sight of the Irish coast the prisoner said that he hoped to return and serve Andrew Johnston as Abraham Lincoln had been served.

On Tuesday Dr. McMillian was again placed on the witness stand. He related various particulars in regard to Surratt's flight, which the prisoner had told him while on board the steamer. While in Canada he (Surratt) was concealed from the detectives by agents of the Confederate Government. Surratt, among other things, stated that the original plan was to abduct President Lincoln, but that this was changed by Booth, who wrote to him (Surratt), who was in Canada, to come on to Washington, as prompt action was required.

This witness was cross-examined at considerable length, but the defence did not succeed in shaking any of his statements.

Dr. McMillian's evidence is probably the most important that has been given during the trial, and the prisoner's counsel were very much disturbed by it.

After the adjournment of the Court there was a fracas between the Judge and the Messrs. Bradley, both of whom threatened to commit an assault in revenge for the remarks which the Judge had made regarding the conduct of the counsel towards the witnesses. There was considerable excitement, and a number of negroes, fearful that the prisoner would attempt to escape, jumped over the bar with a view of preventing him.

On Wednesday Dr. McMillian was cross-examined at considerable length, but no new facts were elicited from him.

Charles H. M. Wood, a colored barber, testified that he was acquainted with Booth. On the morning of the assassination, about 9 o'clock, Booth, Surratt and McLaughlin came into his shop and got shaved and had their hair trimmed. While there they tried on various disguises of false hair. This witness recognized Surratt as he was being taken into the court-room since the commencement of the trial, and he is possitive in regard to his identity.

Thomas B. Rhodes testified that about twelve o'clock on the day of the assassination he strolled into Ford's Theatre to look at the building. While there he entered the President's box, and found a man who appeared to be doing something to the door. This person had a piece of wood in his hand about eight feet long and two inches wide. He said that the President would be there in the evening, and he was fixing the box so that no one would disturb him. The witness recognized Surratt as the man he met in the box.

Several other witnesses were examined on various points bearing on the case, but nothing new developed. The Court adjourned until Friday morning.

On Friday there was some discussion on the part of the counsel as to what almanac should be admitted as evidence, to prove the hour of the moon's rising on the night of the assassination, it being the intention of the prosecution to show that there was a full moon which rose at 9 50 P. M. A number of witnesses were examined, who testified in regard to the movements of Payne, Harold, Atzerott and others of the conspirators. Some of them thought that Surratt resembled a person whom they had seen in Washington on the day of the assassination, but where not able to positively identify him.

On Saturday, Mr. J. H. Bradley, Jr., then opened the case for the defence. He said the attorneys for the defence came to the trial of this case in full confidence of the innocence of the prisoner. He reminded the jury that in its moral aspect the crime was no more heinous in the sight of the Judge of all mankind than the murder of the most obscure citizen. Mr. Bradley received at length the statements of some of the intresses particularly those of John M. Lloyd and Lewis J. Weichman, the former he styled a "self proclaimed base, groveling drunkard."

The defence would prove that John Surratt was in Canada in 1865, and went thence to Europe, and after two years he is found in the Papal service. It is claimed that he received $200,000 from the Confederate Government, and yet he is so poor that he is compelled to seek service as a private soldier, at the end of two years he is lodged in the jail here as one of the assassination conspirators, and he is shut out from the world, and his tale is known to no one except his counsel. His tale is plain and simple, and will be developed. He will be traced from Richmond, in March, 1865, to Montreal in April. It is conceded that he paid his bill at the hotel there on April 12th; and we will show that he was not near Washington, except when brought back here in the Swatara, we will show where Surratt was on April 14th and April 15th and will show that he was not within four hundred mils of Washington.

It will be shown that he went to a certain town and registered his name, John Harrison, and that he remained there to attend a mission he was entrusted with, and was there on April 14th. It will be shown that the register of that hotel has mysteriously disappeared. He will be followed back to Montreal, when he arrived there on April 18th. Facts and circumstances will be shown to conclusively demonstrate that Surratt could not have got to the places for the purpose of covering up his tracks. It will be shown, that while Surratt was in Montreal, after the assassination, he was not allowed to read a newspaper in his place of concealment, and he was not aware of his mother's peril until the eve of her execution, and he then wanted to hasten to Washington to give himself up, but was not permitted to do so.

It will be shown that he first heard that he was implicated in the assassination at Albany, and he then turned back to Montreal. He did not flee for fear, but because he knew, as well as we all know, that Justice dropped her scales when she entered that building at the foot of Four and a half street. As to the handkerchief, of which so much has been said, it will be shown that it was not dropped by Surratt, but by an officer of the Government who was in pursuit, and who carried the hankercheif with him for a purpose. It will be shown that the Government knew that the officer dropped the handkerchief, but did not choose to divulge it.

The defence would also show the agreement between the conspirators and signed by them and upon which neither the name of Mrs. Surratt nor John Surratt appears.

This agreement will be produced as it came direct from the chief conspirator, and contains the genuine signature, in which they pledge themselves to commit this act of assassination and upon that neither the name of John Surratt appears, and after these things are shown, the jury cannot be asked to say that the prisoner is guilty of the charge preferred against him.

At the close of Mr. Bradley's remarks the Court, at 12 30, took a recess until 10 o'clock on Monday morning.

Sing Away Your Grief.

We can sing our cares away easier than we can reason them away. Sing in the morning. The birds are the earliest to sing, the birds are more without care than anything else that I know of. Sing at evening. Singing is the last thing that robbins do. When they have done their daily work; when they have flown their last flight, and picked up their last morsel of food and cleaned their bill on a napkin of a bough, then, on a topmost twig, they sing one song of praise. I know they sleep sweeter for it. They dream music; for sometimes in the night they break forth in singing, and stop suddenly after the first note, startled by their own voice. O that we might sing evening and morning, and let song touch song all the way through.

As I was returning from the country the other evening, between six and seven o'clock, bearing a basket of flowers, I met a man that was apparently the tender of a mason. He looked brick and mortar all over! He had worked all day, and had the appearance of a man that would not be afraid of work. He was walking with a little stop, and singing to himself as he passed down the street, though he had been working the whole day and nearly the whole week. Were it not that my good thoughts always come too late, I should have given him a large assortment of my flowers. If he had not been out of sight when the idea occurred to me, I should have hailed him, and said "Have you worked all day?" "Of course I have, he would have said "And are you singing?" "Of course I am." "Then take these flowers home and give them to your wife, and tell her what a blessing she has in you."

O that we could put songs under our burdens! O that we could extract the sense of sorrow by song! Then these things could not poison so much. Sing in the house. Teach your children to sing When troubles come, go at them with songs. When griefs rise up, sing them down. Lift the voice of song against cares. Praise God by singing, that will lift you above trials of every sort. Attempt it. They sing in heaven, and among God's people upon earth song is the appropriate language of Christians feeling.—Beecher.

NOTHING like love and hunger to drive a man mad or make him happy. Next to a feast upon a seventeen year old pair of sweet lips under grape vines by moonlight, is a foray upon a platter of cold beans after fishing for suckers all day. The one fills the poetic heart and the other an empty stomach.

Temperance Topics.

The Bridal Wine Cup.

"Pledge with wine—pledge with wine," cried the young and thoughtless Harvey Wood; 'pledge with wine,' ran through the bridal party.

The beautiful bride grew pale—the decisive hour had come. She pressed her white hands together, and the leaves of the wreath trembled on her brow—her breath came quicker, and her heart beat wilder.

'Yes, Marion, lay aside your scruples for once,' said the judge, in a low tone, going towards his daughter.

Pouring a brimming cup, they held it with tempting smiles toward Marion.

She was very pale, though more composed; and her hand shook not as smiling back she gracefully accepted the chrystal tempter and raised it to her lips. But scarcely had she done so when she gave forth a piercing exclamation of 'Oh! how terrible!'

"What is it!' cried one and all.

'Wait,' she answerer, 'wait and I will tell you. I see,' she added pointing at the sparkling ruby liquid—'a sight that beggars all description; and yet listen—I will paint it for you if I can. It is a lovely spot; tall mountains crowned with verdure rise in awful sublimity around; a river runs through and bright flowers grow to the water's edge. There is a thick, warm mist, that the sun seeks vainly to pierce. Trees wave to the airy motion of the birds; but there a group of Indians gather; they flit to and fro, with something like sorrow on their dark brows. And in their midst lies a manly form—but his cheek how deathly, his eye wild with the fitful fever. One friend stands beside him—nay, kneels, for he is pillowing that poor head upon his breast.

"Genius in ruins—oh! the high holy looking brow! Look how he throws back the damp curls! see him clasp his hands! Mark how he clutches at the form of his companion, imploring to be saved. Oh! hear him call piteously his father's name—see him twine his fingers together as he shrieks for his only sister—the twin of his soul—weeping for him in his distant land.

See! his arms are lifted to heaven—he prays now wildly, for mercy! hot fever rushes through his veins; the friend beside him weeping; awestricken, the dark men move silently away, and leave the living and the dying together.

There was a hush in the princely parlor, broken only by what seemed a smothered sob, from some manly bosom. She spoke again:

'It is evening now. The moon is coming up, and its beams lay gently on his forehead. He moves not; his eyes are set in their sockets; dim are their sockets; dim are their piercing glances; in vain his friend whispers the name of father and sister—death is there. Death! and no soft hand, no gentle voice to bless and soothe him. His head sinks back. One convulsive shudder! He is dead!'

A groan ran through the assembly, so vivid was her description, so unearthly her look, she inspired her manner.

'Dead!' she repeated again, 'and there they scoop a grave; and there, without a shroud, they lay him down in that damp, reeking earth—the only son of a proud father, the only idolized brother of a fond sister. And he sleeps to day in that distant country, with no stone to mark the spot. There he lies—my father's son! my own twin brother! a victim to this deadly poison. Father,' she exclaimed, while the tears rained down her cheeks, 'father, shall I drink it now?

The form of the old judge was convulsed with agony. In a smothered voice, he faltered?'

'No, no, my child—no!'

She lifted the goblet and letting it fall, it dashed into a thousand pieces. Then, turning to the company, said:

'Let no friend henceforth tempt me to peril my soul for wine. Not firmer are the everlasting hills than my resolve, God helping me, never to touch or taste the poison cup. And he to whom I have given my hand—who watched over my brother's dying form in that solemn hour, and buried the poor wanderer there by the river, in that land of gold, will, I trust, sustain me in that resolve!'

Those who were present at that wedding can never forget the impression so solemnly made. Many from that hour renounced forever the social bowl.

THE WILL OF THE DRUNKARD.—I die a wretched sinner; and I leave to the world a worthless reputation, a wicked example, and a memory only to fit to perish.

I leave to my parents sorrow and bitterness of soul all the days of their lives.

I leave to my brothers and sisters shame, and grief, and reproach of their acquaintances.

I leave to my wife a widowed and broken heart, and a life of lonely struggling, want and suffering.

I leave to my children a tainted name, a ruined position; a pitiful ignorance, and the mortifying recollection of a father who, by his life disgraced humanity, and at his premature death joined the great company of those who are never to enter the kingdom of God

☞A notorious toper used to mourn about not having a regular pair of eyes—one being black and the other light hazel. "It is lucky for you," replied his friend: "for if your eyes had been matches your nose would have set them on fire long ago."

ENDURING INFLUENCE.—Time, change, absence, distance, break off no genuine relations. The love which the interposition of a continent or an ocean can dim, which the separation of years can alter, never was love. I had a friend once, a woman, who was the friend of my better nature—who taught me inspiration, taught me the value of thought, made me believe the worth of life, showed me the joy of growth and progress—one whose soul was so large, so deep, so generous, that she reigned like a queen among the highest intellects and hearts. She left the earth one stormy night, sixteen years ago. But she is as near to me to-day as she was then. The life I live, the thoughts I think, the acts I perform, are colored by influences which came from her mind to mine. If sixteen years can not separate souls, why should sixteen hundred years separate them? When our friends leave us for another world, they are less with us outwardly, but more with us inwardly. We carry them with us in our hearts.

☞An old minister enforced the necessity of difference of opinion by argument: "Now, if everybody had been of my opinion, they would all have wanted my old woman." One of the deacons who sat just behind, responded: "Yes, and if everybody was of my opinion, nobody would have her."

☞"If you ever marry," said a Roman Consul to his son, "let it be one who has sense enough to superintend the setting of a meal of victuals, taste enough to dress herself, pride enough to wash before breakfast, and sense enough to hold her tongue when she has nothing to say."

☞"According to Milton, Eve kept silent in Eden to hear her husband talk," said a gentleman to a lady friend, and then added in a melancholy tone, "Alas, there have been no Eves since." "Because there have been no husbands worth listening to," was the quick retort.

☞"Put out your tongue a little further," said a physician to a female patient; "a little further, ma'am, if you please—a little further still." "Why, doctor, do you think there is no end to a woman's tongue?" cried the fair invalid.

☞A forty-day husband, on whom the memory of the honeymoon already seems to have become powerless, wants to know why his wife is like a small pie. Do you give it up? "Because," says the unfeeling wretch, "she is now a little tart."

☞"Setting a man trap" is the title given to the picture of a pretty young lady arranging her curls in a mirror.

HUNTINGDON, PA.

Wednesday morning, July 17, 1867.

WM. LEWIS, HUGH LINDSAY, } EDITORS.

☞The Masons of New York State have bought the buildings and grounds abandoned by the Peoples' College, at Havana, Schuyler county, and are going to establish a home for the destitute of their Order, and for the orphans and widows of Masons. The property, which consists of one hundred acres, with buildings recently erected for a college, is said to be worth $100,000.

A RENCONTRE.—On Monday, July 2d, after the adjournment of the Criminal Court, on the Surratt trial, high words ensued between Judge Fisher and Mr. Bradley, in reference to a ruling of the Judge. Words were leading to blows when Deputy Marshall Roberts placed himself between them and prevented any broken noses or black eyes. What a fall was there, my countrymen!

☞There is some sign of a filibustering expedition being raised in the United States and Austria to invade the Mexican possessions, and to overthrow the Republic, or whatever you might call it. We have no fears that such a demonstration will amount to much, if it amounts to anything at all more than talk. The Mexicans have had and will have trouble enough, without being posted with such bands of banditti.

THE SURRATT TRIAL.—We have endeavored to keep up with the trial of Surratt, and have given all the most important testimony to our readers in the columns of the Globe. The testimony of the prosecution closed on Saturday the 6th inst., and the testimony of the defence was commenced. The defence intend to prove that the testimony of the prosecution is false, and to show that Surratt was not in Washington on the day of the assassination.

☞Congress has passed a supplementary Reconstruction bill and sent it to the President. Section 2 provides that the commander of any district, shall have power, subject to the disapproval of the General of the army of the United States, to remove any person holding any civil or military office in such district. Section 3 invests the General of the United States with all the powers of suspension, removal, appointment and detail granted in the preceding section to district commanders. We will give the bill next week.

☞It is said that from October, 1861, when Napoleon cunningly induced Spain and England to join France in an attack upon Mexico, until the withdrawal of the French troops, a few months ago, the expenditure to establish the now defunct Mexican empire was so immense that France is $65,000,000 out of pocket by the transaction. When it is considered that the invasion and attempted occupation of Mexico were nominally based upon the non-payment of Mexican debts to French creditors, it will be seen that the French have mightily bettered themselves.

THE Huntingdon Globe seems to be in favor of forming a political party to be composed of no-party men! Friend Lewis might as well attempt to form a church without a creed.—Lewistown Gazette.

Not so, friend Frysinger. We would rather see a party of no party men, opposed to the rascalities and corruptions of the political parties of the present day. When such a party is formed, the country may rest in peace from the grasping ambition now in vogue to maintain power. The leaders of both parties are corrupt and ambitious, while their followers humbly bow to the banners of their "party," and only wink when their consciences are smitten on beholding some new unrighteous measure in the name of their "party."

GREAT INDIAN WAR.—A terrible account of a great approaching Indian conflict reaches us from the far West. Eastern Montana is represented as the scene of the tragedy. The Indians, it is said, have massed a body of 20,000 warriors, who intend to enter the Gallatin Valley in force, and passing down it, destroy all the improvements of the settlers, steal all the stock, and take a scalp for every white man, woman and child they meet, then plunder the Missouri, and escape into her Majesty's dominions in the north, whither they sent their women, children and superannuated men months ago. It is to be hoped that this picture is too highly colored; at least it is earnestly hoped that Gen. Sherman will make such disposition of his troops as to prevent the atrocities that attend the triumphal march of the savages, or succeed in so utterly demoralizing their ranks as to keep them forever from raising their reeking tomahawks and mercilessly scalping innocent white men, women and children. We would be glad if the present Indian demonstrations of war have come upon us, if it results in the total annihilation of the treacherous, impudent and barbarous element in their race. The General promises a vigorous prosecution of the war, and we have no fears that such is his intention; but his actions will convince us the stronger.

The Crawford County System.

The corruption of the usual delegate nominating system has been so manifestly apparent to every observing man who has had any interest in politics whatever, that honest men dread to be chosen as delegates, not wishing to be led into temptation. The offspring of the delegate system has been just to the liking of the "wire pullers" and many of the office-seekers. The politicians now have it their own way, but all that is wanted to take the nominations out of their hands to a great extent, is to adopt another system, which is in vogue in Crawford, Snyder, Armstrong and several of the northern counties, and which, so far, has worked well. We give below the rules, which under the Crawford county system, as it is called, govern the nominations:

First. The candidates for the several offices shall have their names announced in one or more of the county papers at least three weeks previous to the primary meeting, stating the office, and subject to the action of the party at the said primary meeting.

Second. The voters responding to —— principles in each town, or borough shall meet on the——day of—— at the usual place of holding the spring elections, at 2 o'clock P. M., and proceed to elect one person for judge and two persons for clerks, who shall form a board of election to receive votes and determine who are proper persons to vote, and shall hold the polls open until 6 P. M. After the polls are opened the candidates announced as aforesaid shall be balloted for; the name of each person voting shall be written on a list at the time of voting, no person being allowed to vote more than once for each office.

Third. After the polls are closed the board shall proceed to count the votes that each candidate received, and make out the returns accordingly, to be certified to by the judge and attested by the clerks.

Fourth. The judge [or one of the clerks appointed by the judge] of the respective election districts, shall meet at the Court house, in Huntingdon on Tuesday following the primary meetings, at 1 o'clock P. M., having the returns and a list of the voters, and count the votes, and the person having the highest number of votes for any office shall be declared the regular nominee of the——party.

Fifth. Any two or more persons having an equal number of votes for the same office, the judges shall proceed to ballot for a choice, the person having the highest number to be the nominee.

Sixth. The return Judges shall be competent to reject, by a majority, the returns from any election district, where there is evidence of fraud, either in the returns, or otherwise, to the extent of the frauds committed.

☞A riot occurred in Tennessee, on the 6th, between the negro Union Leaguers and the white conservatives. Eighty of the negroes belonging to the League, paraded the streets in regalia, with a band of music, and armed, occasionally firing a salute. Some altercation between some of the whites and the colored Leaguers ensued after the speaking had been peaceably concluded, and the latter retired in bad humor to a grove where they were pacified however, by a son of Doctor Cliffe, who advised them to return to their hall. This they did, but night coming on, and after coming out of their hall, it is alleged they were fired on by a party of conservatives. The fire was instantly returned, and a short fight followed, in which one white man was shot through the heart, and eight whites and eighteen blacks wounded. The radical blacks were much exasperated, and threatened to renew the attack, but Dr. Cliffe interposed, and prevailed on them to desist. There is a difference of statements concerning the origin of the fracas. On one hand it is charged that the colored leaguers were armed, were menacing in deportment, and desired a fight; on the other that they had been previously and repeatedly assaulted, and they were armed in self-defense. We judge it is about six of one and half a dozen of the other. The whites are to blame for aggravating them, and the blacks are to blame for carrying such deadly weapons with the evident intention of creating a disturbance. At any rate what good is to be accomplished by the forming of colored Leagues in the South. Is it not the result of Radical teaching? Is it not one of the many means by which the Radicals seek to obtain and maintain their power over the whites of the South?

MAXIMILIAN DEAD.—We have news of the execution of Maximilian by the Liberals in Mexico, on the 19th of June. Thus ends the troubled reign of a foreign potentate in a troubled Republic, if such we may call it. He was sent to Mexico by Emperor Napoleon, and it was with difficulty that he was induced to accept the unenviable crown. He was escorted to the Mexican shores by French troops, but these having been notified to withdraw by the United States government, the would-be Emperor Max has had a serious time of it since, being beaten by the Liberal forces, and followed by them from one stronghold to another, until he was finally forced to surrender at Queretaro. He was tried and executed, although the United States Government sent a request that his life be spared. The news reached Paris, when Napoleon ordered the French Court to be draped in mourning, in consequence. What further will be tried by that wily monarch Napoleon, in retaliation of the indignity thus offered, is difficult to divine. The United States may come in for a share of his displeasure, however, for thwarting his designs so promptly and effectually in the beginning. We hardly think Napoleon likes us, and the sooner he shows it the better will be his satisfaction.

"The World Moves."

"Speaking of Vice-Presidents, certain distinguished Senators and Representatives in Congress who have been courting the negro vote, in the expectation of getting that position, will wake up some fine morning and find themselves wonderfully mistaken. The African vote will be the ruling vote in eleven States of this Union. By the ruling vote, I mean the vote that will determine the result of the election. That fact the intelligent African understands, and is laying plans. He understands well that, without the negro vote, a Republican candidate for President cannot be elected. Understanding that fact the Africans begin to declare emphatically that the Republican party shall not use them as material for carrying elections, and turn them aside in the disposition of the public patronage. They say that furnishing votes must be reciprocated by receiving a just share of the offices. And in that they are right. It is but simple justice to those men who do the voting to grant them a fair proportion of the official positions. There are several negroes fitted for the position of Vice-President, and that race claim that the second office in the gift of the nation shall be filled by a negro. That, they say, must be accorded to the black race by the Republican party as a proof of the honesty of its profession of attachment to the principles of equal rights to all men regardless of race or color. If that demand is refused, they will consider the Republican party dishonest in its professions and vote against it in the Presidential election.

"In that view the negro is right, and it is to be hoped he will put the party to that test. John M. Langston, of Ohio, is well qualified to fill the position of Vice-President, and the negro need never be ashamed of insisting upon the Republican party placing him upon the ticket as the condition of receiving their support. Such an act would complete the triumph of right and justice so far as equality of race is concerned. It would also put an end to the trimming, intriguing conduct of white seekers for that position, and leave them at liberty to act honestly for the next four years.

"Such a demand, resolutely backed up by the negro, will be sure to succeed, and the Republican party could not do without that vote. The negro vote in 1868 will number about 650 000, so scattered over eleven States as to turn the elections in such directions as they shall see fit. There are, also, about 600,000 votes in the North that would join in supporting such nomination, and that vote is so located as to turn the elections into whatever direction they choose in eight or nine other States. The Republican party, therefore, dare not refuse to nominate Mr. Langston, or some other member of the African race, if that people resolutely require it. That they will require it, I have the best of reasons for believing. Stranger and infinitely more disreputable things have happened in this nation than would be the election of Wendell Phillips as President and John M. Langston as Vice-President in 1868. The Republican party would not dare refuse the nomination of this ticket if resolutely pressed."

PRESIDENTIAL.—The Titusville Herald nominates Gen. Grant for President, and Hon. Galusha A. Grow for Vice President. The Wilmington (Del.) Commercial nominates Gen. Grant for President and Hon. W. D. Kelley for Vice President.

The Harrisburg Telegraph pronounces the following oracular words:

"We are inclined to the opinion that the crisis in national affairs to which we are fast verging, will produce or single out the man to be made the candidate of the Republican party for the Presidency. A great leader, yet unnamed but living for usefulness, will be brought out in time, and prove himself capable of guiding the nation out of the difficulties into which it has been plunged in order to screen our worst enemies."

Of course the Telegraph was too modest to say that the name of "the great leader" is Simon Cameron.

The New York Commercial says:

"Speaker Colfax, so far, leads off in the race for the Presidency. His friends are confident. The other Congressional candidates are Butler, Boutwell, Banks, Fessenden, Sumner, Wade, Wilson, and lately, Roscoe Conkling. The canvass for the nomination is getting hot, and Colfax's friends claim that their candidate has the inside track."

The Surratt Trial.

On Monday, the 8th, James G. Gifford testified: On the night of the assassination witness was out in front at the end of the second and third acts. He went through the stage entrance on the south side of the theatre. Did not see Booth that night. Knew Booth from his boyhood. Never saw Surratt until I saw him here. Saw a gentleman come down and call the time. He was connetted with the theatre; came down from F street. He was to go on that night for a song, and asked Mr. Carlin what time it was, and Carlin stopped up and looked at the clock and said it was ten minutes past ten. He stopped there a few minutes, and then went in. Other persons had been standing around at the time; but if Booth had been there witness would have noticed him.

C. D. Hess testified the same as above. He said he did not see Surratt on the night of the assassination. On Tuesday not much testimony was offered. A great many witnesses testified to their want of confidence in the truthfulness of John Lee.

On Wednesday Thos. J. Raybold testified to having charge of the front of the theatre and of the boxes on the night of the assassination, but never saw the prisoner before.

Further testimony was elicited against the veracity of some of the witnesses for the prosecution.

On Thursday there was the same kind of evidence against the witnesses.

On Saturday Joseph Carroll testified that he thought he told a Mr. Knapp that he saw Surratt at Elmira the 13th and 14th of April. After listening to some further testimony concerning the movements of Mrs. Surratt the Court adjourned until Monday.

[From The New York Times.]

Tennessee Not a Model of Reconstructed States.

Some of our contemporaries have extolled Tennessee as a pattern to be admired and imitated by the people of States engaged in the work of reconstruction. "If the States now excluded," it is said, "will follow Tennessee in disfranchising Rebels, and make their respective Brownlows the administrators of their affairs and their representatives in Congress, there need be no misgiving as to the prompt recognition of the work performed."

Now, we can conceive of no greater calamity than the multiplication of Tennessees as members of the American Union. Of the whole South, Tennessee is beyond doubt the part in which the least has been done towards genuine reconstruction. It is nominally loyal, of course. It is represented in the region over which the provisions of the military government acts extend. And yet what is its condition? Essentially volcanic. Loyal strength is the result not of loyal votes, but of Rebel disfranchisement. Brownlow's authority is contingent upon the application of the crushing process to the majority of the people. He is as absolute in his sphere as any of the military commanders in theirs, and infinitely more unscrupulous. He makes laws to suit his purposes. He interprets laws according to the dictates of his convenience. He tightens the disfranchising screw as often as he finds it necessary, and employs the bayonet when no less pungent weapon will carry his point. The result is that the State he governs approaches nearer and nearer to anarchy. Nowhere on the continent, save in hapless Mexico, is life or property less secure, or liberty a more transparent mockery. A condition of civil war really exists all the time—smothered it may be, but liable at any moment to burst forth under the excitement of some sudden difficulty.

No other state of things is possible so long as the Brownlow doctrine of reconstruction is allowed to prevail. For a period, perhaps, it had its uses. While the Rebellion lasted, any less rigorous rule might have failed to keep in check the hostile elements with which the Border States abounded; but there is no pretext for perpetuating in pease the ironhanded administration which was indispensable amidst the turmoil of war. The country requires the allegiance of its citizens, but this is possible only when the powers that be cease to heap penalties upon whole classes, and to persecute as outlaws all who refuse to pronounce their party Shibboleth.

Brownlow proceeds on the notion that it is necessary, day after day, to pile coals of fire upon the heads of the treat majority of the people, simply because they decry his acts and seek go thwart his ambition. A statesman similarly situated would acknowledge mutual reconciliation as the stepping-stone to reconstruction; he would see that the loyalty of a State can have no efficient guarantee except the attachment of the people; and he would avoid the fatal blunder of supposing that the elevation of his nominees to power is a test of the fitness of the people for the possession of the franchise. In a word, a wise ruler, occupying Brownlow's position, within the period which has elapsed since the close of the Rebellion, would have restored Tennessee to peace, and placed it far on the road to prosperity.—Brownlow, on the contrary, by pursuing a course of which almost fiendish malignity is the chief characteristic, has alienated class from class, driven moderate Unionists into alliance with unrepentant Rebels, and forced his State, rich in natural resources, to a condition of desperation, almost of despair.

We are glad to see that the exaltation of Tennessee as a model State is deprecated by influential Radical journals. Missouri has tried the proscriptive policy thoroughly, and the St Louis Democrat is not disposed to recommend its adoption "Tennessee," that print remarks, "is not a particularly good pattern for other States. It is not absolutely certain," the Democrat adds, "that the methods adopted by the loyal men there may not fail to secure their safety." The probabilities point in the other direction. There can be no permanent safety in methods which imply the continued parade of the conqueror's authority.

Contrasted with the Tennessee system, the reconstruction policy of Congress is merciful and just. Stern it is, indeed, and despotic for a time, but it opens the doors to a milder authority, and offers inducements to the acceptance of conditions by which the South may materially improve its position. The guarantees it exacts imply no long-continued humiliation, and no more radical changes than those which follow logically from the late conflict.

Instead of commending Tennessee as a model to be imitated by the States, or to be respected in framing the policy of the Republic, we submit that it should be studied as an illustration of the evils and dangers of a theory of reconstruction based upon narrow-mindedness and hate. Congress holds in its hands the power of securing loyal organizations throughout the South. For the rest, reliance must be placed upon the amended spirit and will of the people, and these are more likely to be affected by a generous forbearance, as suggested by Sickles, than by the intolerance and lawless violence which have their official incarnation in the irreverend Brownlow.

A NEGRO ON RECONSTRUCTION.—A special dispatch says that at a negro meeting held near Charlottsville, Va., on the 4th, a colored preacher was the chief spokesman. He said he would be satisfied with nothing less than absolute social as well as political equality, and he would not think reconstruction properly effected until he could enter the parlor of the best white man in the land and addressed as Mr. Lindsey. He urged the negroes to elect a black Governor, and a fair share of the legislature, one Senator and all the Congressmen they could get.

THE COST.—The Reconstruction Bill is now in the hands of the President. The amount required to carry it into effect is a snug sum. The War Department estimates it at $1,618,277. Fine pickings for somebody.

FROM MEXICO.

Maximilian Shot on the 19th of June.

NEW YORK, July 1.—The Tribune's Washington special says: The following dispatch was received by the American Minister Saturday evening:

Southwest Pass, La., via New Orleans—To Count Wydenbruck: I come from Vera Cruz to telegraph you of the condemnation and death of the Emperor Maximilian on the 19th inst., President Juarez refuses to deliver up the body. GROLIER TEHIEFF,
Captain Austrian Sloop.

Count Wydenbruck is absent from the city at present. To-day his Secretary of Legation sent a dispatch by the cable to Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria, and the Emperor Napoleon, announcing Maximilian's execution. The event has produced a great excitement here among the foreign ministers. The residence of the Austrian minister has been visited to-day by nearly all of these officials, who called to condole and obtain the latest intelligence.

United States Steamer Tacony, Vera Cruz, June 25th, via New Orleans, June 30th.—To the Hon. Gideon Welles, Secretary of the Navy: Maximilian was shot on the 19th inst. I begged hard for his corpse for the Austrian Captain, and was refused. The Vera Cruz holds out on account of the foreign legion, Diaz orders no acceptance of surrender. I am moored between Nelva and North Bustian. Jason is in company. Letter by mail.

T. A. ROE, Commander.

Information received here yesterday from what is regarded as trustworthy source, is to the effect that by a decree of the Juarez government. Maximilian was shot on the 19th of June at seven o'clock A. M., and that the friends of Maximilian asked the privilege of removing his body for the purpose of sending it to Europe, but the request was refused.

It is believed that Juarez reluctantly consented to the execution of Maximilian. When the messenger bearing the dispatches from our Government relative to sparing the life of Maximilian delivered his packages to Juarez, the latter informed him that he was disposed to spare the life of Maximilian, but the pressure from Mexican leaders and people for his execution was so great that it would be almost impossible to resist it.

The State Library.

Pennsylvania has now the finest State Library apartments to be found in the country The new and commodious library room was formally opened on Wednesday evening, when a very large and select company assembled to hear an address from Governor Geary. His Excellency's remarks were mainly historical, and, consequently, the more interesting. The room is fifty-four feet wide and one hundred and two feet long, with the ceiling twenty-two feet four inches high. A gallery, supported by sixteen Corinthian pillars, extends arounds the entire room. Sixteen pillars corresponding with the above, run from the bottom of the gallery to the ceiling. The gallery on both sides and one end of the room, is twelve feet wide, while at the east end it is seventeen feet wide. The centre of the ceiling is occupied by a sky-light seventy-five feet long and eighteen feet wide, composed of ground glass, with border and star figures rising at an angle of forty-five degrees, to the central ridge. The ceiling is elaborately moulded in a series of panels, ornamented with central rosetts. The first floor contains one thousand five hundred and sixty square feet of shelving, and the gallery two thousand eight hundred and eight square feet of box shelves. An immense parallelogram, provided with chairs and sofas for the accommodation of visitors, is on the centre of the first floor. In the centre of this there is a sexangular structure of well polished walnut, eight feet in diameter, on the top is to be placed a full-length statue of Minerva, and the top sides are fitted up for writing purposes. Two elegant spiral stair-ways lead to the gallery, in the right and left corners of the front end of the room. Each forms a perfect circle, with a radius of four feet. The floor is covered with a rich Brussels carpet, woven in Gothic medallion, the principal colors being white, orange and purple. Thirteen hundred yards of carpet were required. The Library is lighted by means of fourteen chandeliers, six burners each, suspended between the pillars along the outer edges of the gallery, and by sixteen pillar lights on the top of the balustrade of the gallery. There are also bracket lights in the two front corners of the room, for the use of the Librarian and his Assistant at their desks. The whole number of gas burners is one hundred and thirty-four and all are furnished with beautiful glass globes. The sofas, tables, and chairs are of the best walnut, covered with green rep. The woodwork of the room is finished in lepina gloss. The whole arrangement is of the most complete character, and reflects great credit on the State Librarian, Wein Forney, Esq, who had charge of its construction, and who has the good fortune to be its first official occupant.

There are twenty eight thousand three hundred and twenty-three volumes on the shelves of the Library. The average increase has been eight hundred volumes per year since 1859

Death of Gen. Thomas F. Meagher.

VIRGINIA CITY, July 7.—Gen. Thos. Francis Meagher, Secretary and Acting Governor of this Territory, fell from the deck of the steamer Thompson, at Fort Benton, on the evening of July 1, and was drowned. He had been absent for the last fortnight on public business, and had succeeded in procuring arms for the troops engaged in the defence of the Territory, besides transacting other military business demanded by our present exigency. His death is greatly lamented, and a public demonstration will be made in honor of his distinguished character and services. At the last accounts his remains had not been found. The darkness of the night and the rapidity of the current prevented any rescue.

☞There was a wreck of a freight train near Barree station yesterday, caused by an axle breaking.

PROCLAMATION.—WHEREAS, by a precept to me directed, dated at Huntingdon, the 20th of April, A. D. 1867, under the hands and seal of the Hon. George Taylor, President of the Court of Common Pleas, Oyer and Terminer, and general jail delivery of the 24th Judicial District of Pennsylvania, composed of Huntingdon, Blair and Cambria counties; and the Hons. Anthony J. Beaver and David Clarkson, his associates, Judges of the county of Huntingdon, justices assigned, appointed to hear, try and determine all and every indictments made or taken for or concerning all crimes, which by the laws of the State are made capital, or felonies of death, and other offences, crimes and misdemeanors, which have been or shall hereafter be committed or perpetrated, for crimes aforesaid—I am commanded to make public proclamation throughout my whole bailiwick, that a Court of Oyer and Terminer, of Common Pleas and Quarter Sessions, will be held at the Court House in the borough of Huntingdon, on the second Monday (and 12th day) of AUGUST next, and those who will prosecute the said prisoners, be then and there to prosecute them as it shall be just, and that all Justices of the Peace, Coroner and Constables within said county, be then and there in their proper persons, at 10 o'clock, a. m. of said day, with their records, inquisitions, examinations and remembrances, to do those things which to their offices respectively appertain.
Dated at Huntingdon, the 10th of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven, and the 91st year of American Independence.

SHERIFF'S SALES.—By virtue of Writs of Vend. Exp. Fi. Fa and Lev. Fi. directed to me, I will expose to public sale or outcry, at the Court House, in the borough of Huntingdon, ON MONDAY, 12TH DAY of AUGUST, A. D. 1867, at 2 o'clock, P. M., the following described property to wit:

All that certain lot, or part of a lot, of ground, fronting fifty feet on the south side of Church street, in the borough of Huntingdon, and extending back in depth 100 feet, being the northern half of lot No. 201 in said borough. Seized, taken in execution, and to be sold as the property of Margaret Brotherline and Jas. Saxton.

ALSO—A tract, piece, or parcel of land, situated in Cass township, containing 202 acres, having a large stone house, a log stable, a saw-mill and a distillery thereon erected, about 70 acres of which land are cleared, and the balance well timbered, adjoining lands of John Savage on the west, Joshua Greenland on the north, R. and J. Crosby on the east, and Peter Kaufman on the south. There is a good appearance of iron ore upon this land. Seized, taken in execution, and to be sold as the property of William Weaver.

ALSO—A lot of ground in Tod township, Huntingdon county, containing about ¼ acre, bounded on the north and east by —— Plummer, south by public road leading from Broad Top City to Huntingdon, and west by property of Thomas Clark, with a two-story frame house, with log back kitchen, and a two story blacksmith shop thereon, or standing partly thereon. Seized, taken in execution, and to be sold as the property of Amos Clark.

ALSO—About fifty acres of land, more or less, situate in West township, bounded and described as follows: adjoining lands of Miles Lewis on the south, Robert Moore on the west, and John Mallit on the east, with two log houses and log barn thereon. Seized, taken in execution, and to be sold as the property of Asbury Ewing and Samuel Ewing.

ALSO—All that certain piece of ground consisting of part of lots No. 8, 9, and 10 in the recorded plan of the borough of Huntingdon, adjoining lots of —— and R. R. Patchin on the east, Allegheny street on the south, Smith street on the west, and an alley ten feet wide (which is appurtenant to the premises) adjoining the same, and the southern part of which is eighty feet from Hill street. In the said borough, having on the said lot a stone and brick dwelling house, a brick stable and other improvements. Seized, taken in execution, and to be sold as the property of Joseph Morrison.

ALSO—All that certain lot of ground, situate in the village of Coffee Run, Lincoln township, being 80 feet in front and 50 feet in rear and width, and 100 feet deep, the inside angle forming a line 136 feet long, and in the recorded plan of said village, made by J. Simpson Africa, Esq., 30th May, 1855, being lot No. 8, having thereon a new frame store house, blacksmith shop &c.

Also, All that certain piece and parcel of land, in the village of Coffee Run, Lincoln township, being lots Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4 in the plan of said village, made by J. Simpson Africa, Esq., on the 30th and 31st days of May, 1855, each of said lots being 80 feet in width and 100 feet in length, being adjacent to and west of the Huntingdon and Broad Top Mount'in Railroad, adjoining lot No. 5 on the south, and on the west and north land of John Beaver, having thereon a wagon-shed, corn-crib, &c.

Also, All that certain other lot of ground, in the village of Coffee Run, Lincoln township, being lot No. 5 in the plan of said lots, made by J. Simpson Africa, Esq., on the 30th May, 1855, lying on the west side of the Broad Top Railroad, being 80 feet in width and extending back 158 feet to an alley 12 feet wide, containing one fourth of an acre, more or less, adjoining land of John Beaver on the north-west, lots Nos. 1, 2, 3 and four on the east and north, the Broad Top Railroad on the east, and other lands of Simon Cohn on the south, having thereon a two-story frame dwelling house, frame stable, &c.

Also, All that certain piece and parcel of land, situate in Lincoln township, bounded and described as follows, to wit: Beginning at a post on the line of land formerly of John Bagley, thence along said line south 48¼ degrees east 38 perches and 3 1-100 of a perch to a stone heap, thence by land of John Beaver north 56¼ degrees west 43 1-100 perches to a post at the Broad Top Railroad, thence along the same being a curve of two degrees the chord of the acre bears south 22 degrees 10 minutes west, and distance along said railroad 53 perches to a post, thence north 70½ degrees west 11 22-100 perches to a stump, thence south 19¼ degrees, west 29 80-100 perches to the place of beginning, containing 20 acres, more or less, according to the draft made by J. Simpson Africa, Esq., 30th May, 1855, excepting lots Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 8 from this description and included in other conveyances to John Fulton, Mrs Foster and Simon Cohn. Seized, taken in execution, and to be sold as the property of Simon Cohn.

ALSO—Lot No. 126, in the borough of Coalmont, fronting fifty feet on Schell street, and extending back 150 feet, to an alley adjoining lot No. 125, on the east, and Bough ry street on the west, having a two story plank house and frame stable thereon erected. Seized, taken in execution and to be sold as the property of Thomas H. Fagan.

ALSO—A lot of ground in the village of Dudley, adjoining lots of Orbison & Co., east, by an alley on the south by street, and west by lot of James Brady, the said lot being 50 by 120 feet deep, having a large two story plank house and frame stable, and other necessary improvements thereon erected. Seized, taken in execution and to be sold as the property of Thomas Martin.

NOTICE TO PURCHASERS.—Bidders at Sheriff's Sales will take notice that immediately upon the property being knocked down, fifty per cent. of all bids under $100, and twenty-five per cent. of all bids over that sum, must be paid to the Sheriff, or the property will be set up again and sold to other bidder, who will comply with the above terms.

If court continues two weeks deed acknowledged on Wednesday of second week. One week's court, property knocked down on Monday and deed acknowledged on the following Saturday.

Brief Items.

—Mrs. John Shaw, of Lewistown, had an eye almost put out by a fork in the hands of one of her children.

—We are glad to state that the hay crop is very abundant. Will it sell as high? Hay?

—A man named Joseph Robinson broke his arm, sprained his ankle, and injured himself internally, by trying to break from the Lewistown jail.

—The Methodist Sunday School will hold a pic-nic in Burchinell's Grove, to-morrow, Wednesday. A good time is anticipated, if it don't rain.

—Mr. William Fentiman, who was badly burnt at the recent fire, is on his feet again. He still suffers slight pain from the injury to his right hand.

—We had some heavy hail and thunder storms in this place last week and the week previous. The grain was beaten down in some places, but no serious damage was done.

—Mary, a young daughter of Mr. Daniel Pope, of West Huntingdon, fell from a mulberry tree, on Tuesday, the 2d July, and dislocated the index finger on her right hand.

—The Lewistown Democrat has finally enlarged to a seven column paper. It is gotten up in good style.—We hope the publishers may have continued success.

—Jacob Stabley, proprietor of the Warm Springs, is to have a large party on Friday next. Everybody is invited, therefore everybody should have a good time.

—The Fourth was celebrated in this place as we expected it would be. Fishing parties and pic nics were the rage. All who staid at home enjoyed themselves, and what more could be expected from such a patriotic people.

—Improvement is still the order of the day in West Huntingdon. Bricks and frames are still going up, and the borough authorities have graded two of the streets the entire length. If the good work goes on, we will soon have a city of magnificent proportions.

—An attempt is being made to charge five dollars for the use of the water at Bedford Springs except to residents of Bedford county, and the guests at the Springs. The Inquirer don't like to see Nature's beverage go ing so dear, and neither do we.

—The Blair county Whig has taken to itself the name of the Radical. We seriously think it needed a definite name to tell the people what it really was. It's all right, Brother Brotherline, to let everybody know where you stand, but be sure to "fight it out on that line."

—A match game of base ball was played between the Social and Young America on Saturday, July 6, in which the Y. A's. were beaten—score 45 to 29. Another game was played between the same clubs on Saturday last, when the little boys were again beaten, the score standing 36 to 87.

—Our young friends, John T. Patton and George S. Lackey, the former a son of Hon B. F. Patton, have entered into business in Altoona as wholesale and retail dealers in Carpets, Oil Cloths, Wall Paper, Window Shades, Queensware, &c. We hope the young men abundant success in their new enterprise, as they are in every way deserving.

—The farmers are now busily engaged in harvesting. We have heard it asserted that the crops have not been as good, within the recollection of the "oldest inhabitants," for the last twenty-five years. We should all feel highly thankful to Providence for this dispensation of His goodness, and can live in hopes that the "good times" are coming once again.

—Mr. David P. Gwin has laid a new brick pavement in front of his store. Mr. Peter C. Swoope has torn away the dilapidated porch in front of his dwelling, and has laid a new pavement. Toes and ankles have been in jeopardy long enough from uneven pavements, and we hope to see all such taken up and replaced by better ones.

—The Presbyterian Church was exposed to sale on Saturday last. The bids went up to $6500, but no more being offered, the Trustees adjourned the sale, no doubt, till money is plentier. We don't think this will interfere, however, with the determination of the Trustees to erect a larger building.—A suitable site is now being sought, and though several have been spoken of, none has been determined on.

—The Fourth was appropriately celebrated in Altoona. There must have been at least 10,000 persons to witness the ceremonies. There was a procession in the morning, about a mile long, comprising fire companies, two pieces of artillery, and the different orders. The crowd repaired to the cemetery after the parade, where the dedicatory address was delivered by Gen. James A. Beaver. The Huntingdon Cornet Band acquitted itself creditably—even surpassing the expectations of the most sanguine. We think the crowd of strangers could have enjoyed themselves better, if there had not been so much "tanglefoot" disposed of, but fortunately the extreme cases of drunkenness were very rare.

Runaway and Accident.

On Thursday afternoon last, two young men, well known to our community, named John A. Willoughby and John Maguire, the latter one of the firm of Wharton & Maguire, hardware merchants, of this place, hitched up a young horse, belonging to Mr. G. B. Armitage, in a bran new buggy, for the purpose of taking a pleasure ride. The party were, alas, doomed to a sad disappointment. They had just gone over the river bridge leading to Smithfield when the horse suddenly started off at a frightful speed. He ran into the fence a short distance from Smithfield, broke up the buggy, and upset the gentlemen. Maguire was thrown on his side, and his right leg broken above the knee, besides sustaining injuries to his left hip and back. Willoughby escaped unhurt, although he was dragged some distance. The horse, after upsetting the buggy, and breaking the shafts, started up the road, through Smithfield, and got on the ridge road. He was not found until the next morning, when he was brought home, nothing the worse for his run. We are happy to state that Mr. Maguire is rapidly getting better.

Affectionate, Very.

"At a party in this town recently, two chaps were particularly struck with the same lass. Being chilly, the fair maiden wore a large shawl. While sitting in the back part of the room, with one of the lovers above mentioned on either side, each of her admirers concluded to slip his hand under the shawl, and try what effect squeezing her hand would have. He went for it, and succeeded. "Great day," how happy he was. He squeezed, and he squeezed apparently. He felt glorious all over, and she evidently felt glorious too. After quite a joyful time spent in this way, the lady threw back her shawl, and revealed to a little crowd standing near, our two youths squeezing one another's hands most lovingly. It don't do to say "squeeze" to either of them since.

Kicked by a Horse.

Mr. B. Frank Sloan, of Henderson township, was kicked in the face by a horse on Thursday evening, July 4th, and had his jaw broken in two places, and also his nose. He had brought the horses from water, to the stable door, when one of them kicked at the other, and Mr. Sloan received the blow, which knocked him down. He was picked up in an insensible state, the blood rapidly oozing from the wounds. Dr. Brumbaugh was sent for, who, with the assistance of Dr. D. P. Miller, succeded in relieving the unfortunate man's sufferings.

—One of those itinerant peddlers, who hold forth in the night time, and supply the bystanders with plenty of gas, was in town on Saturday night last, selling boot-blacking by the box, "one for 15, and two for a quarter."—He succeeded in disposing of most of his stock, ("but a little more left") much to the chagrin of our Job-like merchants, who stood by, wondering how it come that so many persons were in need of boot-polish. We think the peddler explained the secret of his success when he said he had plenty of "brass," and still more "gab."

—The Lewistown Gazette publishes the following stretch of imagination: Many passengers through the Narrows below this place, on the P. R. R., no doubt fail to observe a large rock about half way up the mountain, just above the division house, about six miles down, which nature has carved into the form of a soldier standing on picket, in the act of peeping around a rock, as if listening, his cap, coat, knapsack, and other appurtonances being well defined, the whole forming a giant statue of life-like appearance.

—We are indebted to Mr. Nelson Ball for a copy of the Carlisle Herald, dated Friday, July 31, 1812. It is a four column folio, and was published by Messrs. Alexander & Philips, at $2 per annum, the present price of the Globe. It contains a portion of a speech delivered by Mr. Bayard in the United States Senate, upon his motion made on the 16th of June, to postpone the further consideration of the Bill declaring War against Great Britain, to the 31st of October. It contains some interesting views concerning our second war with England, which we may publish when we find room.

The Steam Mill.

The steam flour mill of J. K. McCahan & Son, West Huntingdon, has been put in complete running order. The new stones work smoothly, and the whole working machinery promises to do as good work as can be turned out in any other mill in the county.

The Roads to the Warm Springs.

If we had to drive to the Springs we would return the road Supervisors every day until they were put in a condition for travel. It would be to the interest of the proprietor of the Springs to see that the roads are put in order immediately.

Installation.

Rev. J. J. Kerr, will be installed at the Lutheran Church, as pastor, Saturday 20th inst., at 10 o'clock. Rev. S. McHenry, delivers the charge to the people, and Rev. A. H. Aughey, to the Pastor.

Our Band.

The Huntingdon Silver Cornet Band receives some very complimentary notices from the Hollidaysburg papers, which we give below. The boys are deserving of all they get, and we are glad that their trip to Altoona was so satisfactory, and has called forth such appropriate comments from our cotemporaries. Read what is said of them:

THE HUNTINGDON BAND.—Among the prominent and attractive features of the great demonstration, at Altoona, on the Fourth, was the Huntingdon Silver Cornet Band. The fine appearance and gentlemanly deportment of the members, together with their excellent playing, elecited universal admiration, and it was the generally expressed opinion that the Juniata Valley had good reason to feel proud of such a first class organization. In the comparatively short period of its existence this Band has acquired a reputation second to none in the State. It will have to look to its laurels, however, because our Social Band will have their new horns in a short time.—Register.

Not the least interesting feature of the occasion, and one which attracted much attention, was the appearance of the silver cornet band of Huntingdon, which, on account of its soul-stirring music, admirable training and general appearance, was admired by all admirers. This band, taking into consideration the length of time since its organization has attained a remarkable degree of efficiency in the art of instrumental music, and fully sustained the reputation already won, of being second to none in the State. A finer looking set of fellows we have seldom seen, and better music than that discoursed by them we have seldom listened to.—Whig.

Died From Eating Cherries.

A boy named Philip Garlock, son of Mr. Frank Garlock, of this place, died on Thursday morning last, from the effects of eating cherries. About a week previous to his death he went to the country, where he had free access to a cherry tree, and it is supposed he ate an over quantity of the fruit, together with the stones. He was brought home sick, and ever since his arrival home, it was found impossible to open his bowels, although every remedy was tried that medical skill could devise. His death should be a warning to those who eat this fruit, particularly to the younger portion of the community who are so apt to swallow the seeds.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

TO THE LADIES.—Do you really intend to cease wearing the beautiful styles now so prevalent, or dress less elegantly, because the rebel Jeff. Davis, was captured in Fashionable Female attire? One moment's calm reflection will surely serve to change your rash resolve. The angels had too much good sense to lay aside their pure chaste robes of white, because they had for a time served to hide the deformities of that Prince of Rebels, the Devil. Can you err in following the example of Angels? Then having made up your minds that you will continue to dress tastefully regardless of rebel acts, do not forget to call at the store of the subscribers, who will be happy at all times to furnish you with such articles of dress as you may desire. Urge your fath, ers, husbands, brothers, neighbors and children to visit the same store. They can here be suited in good articles of Boots, Shoes, Clothing Material, Hats, Caps, Queensware and a general assortment of Groceries, on as reasonable terms as at any House in town. BEALE'S

Late Powell's Embrocation,

For all Diseases Incident to HORSES, CATTLE, and the HUMAN FLESH, Requiring the use of an External Application.

This new Compound, prepared by a practical Chemist having a full knowledge of all the medical virtues of each ingredient that enters into its composition, is warranted to exceed anything of the kind ever yet offered to the Public as an external application for the diseases for which it is recommended. We are satisfied that it will work its own road into the confidence of all who use it and those who try it once will never be without it, and therefore we rely on experience as the best test of its usefulness. It is pronounced by Farriers, and all who have tried it to be the best application ever used. This Embrocation has been put up for over eight years, and it is only through the increasing demand and urgent request of my friends and the Public that I send it forth as the grand remedial agent for the various diseases to which that noble and useful animal, the horse, is subject

Many remedies have been offered to the Public under different forms, some of these are injurious, others at best of little use, and many wholly improper to answer the purposes for which they are recommended.

A judicious and really useful composition, free from those objections, has therefore long been desired by many gentlemen who have valuable horses, and are unwilling to trust them to the care of designing and pretended Farriers. Their wishes are at length fully gratified, by Dr. Beale being prevailed upon to allow this valuable Embrocation (which has proved so efficacious to the various diseases) to be prepared and brought out to the public.

Address all Orders to Dr. EDMUND BEALE,
602 South Second Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

For sale at Lewis' Book Store, and by Store keepers generally. may 1, '67-6m.

LATEST FASHIONS DEMAND

J. W. Bradley's Celebrated Patent

Duplex Elliptic

or Double Spring,

SKIRT.

The wonderful Flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, operas, carriages, railroad cars, church pews, arm chairs, for promenade and house dress, as the skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality in crinoline, not found in any single spring skirt.

A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the duplex elliptic steel spring skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For children, misses and young ladies they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the single spring but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The hoops are covered with double and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs, but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down steps, stairs, &c.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in crinoline, viz: superior quality, perfect manufacture, stylish shape and finish, flexibility, durability, comfort and economy, enquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic, or double spring skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

CAUTION.—To guard against imposition be particular to notice that skirts offered as "Duplex" have the red ink stamp, viz: J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs" upon the waist band—none others are genuine. Also notice that every hoop will admit a pin being passed through the centre, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their flexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other spring.

For sale in all stores where first class skirts are sold throughout the United States and elsewhere.

Manufactured by the sole owners of the patent.

Breeding Poultry.

Phil. Million, in the Country Gentleman, gives some timely hints on the care necessary in improving poultry:

Now that the important season of hatching has come again, a few words on the breeding of poultry may perhaps be acceptable, even if there is nothing new to be said on the subject.

The same general principles which govern in the breeding of other domestic animals are applicable also in the management of poultry. The most of our farmers, at least here in the west, seem to forget that chickens will as surely degenerate by constantly breeding from the same stock as will cattle or hogs by the same course.

Degeneracy in poultry manifests itself sooner in no other way than by the lessened fecundity of the hen and the inferiority in size and quality of the eggs. Shelter at night and during wet and stormy weather, appropriate food, good water, plenty of lime and ashes and sand, contentment and cleanliness, are all essential to the abundant production of large and good eggs, but with all these, we will still be disappointed if we neglect to infuse into our stock fresh blood from year to year.

To increase the average number of eggs per hen we must, of course, "weed out" the poor layers. Of a given number of pullets hatched at the same time, some may commence laying much sooner than others, some may lay largar eggs, some more frequently, while others may continue to lay longer. By a little attention on the part of the person who has charge of them, the peculiarity of each hen in these respects may be known. Choose those combining the most good qualities, and breed from them only. Repeat this process from year to year, and if the greatest number of eggs is the chief object sought, cultivate the laying propensities of your flock, by selecting those hens which lay most frequently and continue to lay the longest. Yet, where eggs and chickens are both objects of profit, the "everlasting layers" are not desirable, to the exclusion of all others. For rearing chickens, you will need some hens of a gentle and peaceable disposition, and not such as will try to kill every stray chick that happens to get into the wrong coop. Such ill-tempered hens are thought by some to be more watchful against cats or other enemies, but I find they lose more chicks than the more quiet hens, for when a cat presents itself at the coop, and Madame Spitfire commences her warlike demonstrations, she is almost sure to drive every chick out, and that is just what the attacking party wants. On the other hand Madame quiet retains her "posish" in the far end of the coop, with her brood under her wings, as if conscious of her safety, and if the coop is properly constructed, she is safe.

In selecting breeding stock, have an eye to plumage, for it is an admitted fact among poulterers that "fine feathers cover fine flesh." Select, also, from among the early broods. To kill off all the early chickens and save only the late ones for the next year is a mistake too frequently practiced on some farms. For the sake of having eggs in December, some will manage to keep a few of the early pullets, but as for the roosters, as they don't lay anyhow, it is thought a July hatched chick will be big enough to crow by the following February, and that is all that is required.

Early roosters, as well as early pullets, are the ones to save, if we wish to improve our poultry from year to year.

Well bred poultry is scarce here, hence it is harder for us than for Eastern farmers to keep up our stock. I find, however, it pays as well, in proportion to the investment, to send East for eggs to set occasionally, as it does to import short horns or Chester whites. Yet let no farmer's wife, or daughter, or son, as the case may be, who has the care of the poultry, despair of its improvement, because the farmer himself cannot see that there is a science in rearing chickens as well as in rearing colts, and will not, therefore, consent to the purchase of a few eggs, or a pair or trio of choice fowls every year or two. If you cannot do this, then exchange eggs with your neighbors, and be all the more persevering. Take special care of the chicks thus obtained, and select from among them the best roosters, while from your own stock select your pullets or vice versa.

FRENCH METHOD OF RAISING TOMATOES.—As soon as a cluster of flowers is visible, the stem is topped down to the cluster, so that the flowers terminate the stem. The effect is, that the sap is immediately impelled into the two buds next below the cluster, which soon push strongly and produce another cluster of flowers each. When these are visible, the branch to which they belong is also topped down to their level; and this is done five times successively. By this means the plants become stout, dwarf bushes, not above eighteen inches high. In order to prevent their falling over, sticks or strings are stretched horizontally along the rows, so as to keep the plants erect. In addition to this, all the laterals that have no flowers, and after the fifth topping, all laterals whatsoever, are nipped off. In this way the ripe sap is directed into the fruit, which acquires a beauty, size and excellency unattainable by any other means.—Farm and Fireside.

PROF. H. M'ENTYRE'S GREAT REMEDY,

THE

INDIAN COMPOUND

Internal and External Medicine,

WILL CURE:

☞ Diarrhœa, Bloody Flux in one day,
☞ Headache and Earache in three minutes.
☞ Toothache in one minute.
☞ Neuralgia in five minutes,
☞ Sprains in twenty minutes,
☞ Sore Throat in ten minutes,
☞ Cholic and Cramp in five minutes,
☞ Rheumatism in one day,
☞ Pain in the Back or Side in ten minutes,
☞ Bad Coughs or Colds in one day,
☞ Fever and Ague in one day.
☞ Cures Deafness, Asthma, Piles,
☞ Bronchitis Affections, Dyspepsia,
☞ Inflammation of the Kidneys, Erysipelas,
☞ Liver Complaint and Palpitation of the Heart.

Keep it in your Families—Sickness comes when least expected.

I propose to check, and effectually dissipate more ache and pain, and to accomplish more perfect equilibrium of all the circulating fluids in the human system, than can be effected by any other, or all other methods of medical aid in the same space of time.

THIS POPULAR REMEDY is fast coming into use, for the fact that it cures, free of charge, all these complaints whenever there is an opportunity to do so. As soon as it is applied it almost miraculously kills the pain. I do not ask you to buy before you are certain of its efficacy. If you have an ache or pain, it is warranted to do all it purports on the label.

I do not propose to cure every disease—only a class named by my directions. My liniment operates on chemical and electric principles, and is, therefore, applicable, to the cure or natural restorative of all organic derangement arising from an improper circulation of the nerve vital fluids.

Prof. J. H. McEntyre's INDIAN COMPOUND acts directly on the absorbents, reducing all glandular and other swellings in incredible short time, without any possible danger from its use under any possible circumstances.

This is an internal and external medicine—composed of roots, herbs and barks, such as our forefathers used.—There is a bountiful supply on earth to cure all complaints if we only know what they were.

This has been a great study with the Medical Faculty for many years, to find out the kinds best adapted to the above complaints—how to put them together, and what proportions to use.

J. H. McENTYRE,
Proprietor, Reading, Pa.

For sale at Lewis' Book Store.

Huntingdon, Pa., Sept. 6, 1865.

McENTYRE'S

DANDELION PILLS,

PHOTOGRAPH

MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE

PATENT APPLIED FOR.

Hitherto there has been nothing introduced in way of a Marriage Certificate that has excited any interest or attraction; but the originators of the PHOTOGRAPH MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE claim that they have gotten up something that will be most heartily welcomed by all persons now married and all those who contemplate marriage.

Size and Plan of the Marriage Certificate.

The size of the Certificate is 19 by 14 inches. It contains a beautiful figure representing the union of two hearts. Above the figure is written in beautifully ornamented Gothic Text the words "Photograph Marriage Certificate." There are three spaces in the figure: on the space in the center the Certificate proper is written. The words, "two hearts in one" form an arch over the Certificate proper, and immediately under the arch there is a beautiful figure representing the joining of hands, and where the centre space comes to a point there is a picture of two beautiful turtle doves. On the space to the left there is a place for the photograph of the gentleman and under it we have the words, "To the Husband," in ornamental text, under which we have selections of Scripture passages addressed to the husband. On the left side of the engraving we have a place for the Photograph of the wife. Immediately under which we have the words, "To the Wife," in ornamental text, under which are appropriate passages of Scripture addressed to the wife. Over the space for the photograph of gentleman we have written in Old English characters, the following appropriate passage of Scripture: "It is not good that the man should be alone," and over the space for the photograph of the lady, we have the corresponding words: "I will make him an help meet for him." At the lower extension of the figure of the hearts, we have the hearts bound together or enriched in part by these words: "What therefore God hath joined together let no man put asunder." The Certificate is so constructed that card photographs of both bride and bridegroom can be inserted without the least possible difficulty. Indeed everything connected with it is so elegant, attractive and desirable that many single persons seeing the Certificate have been so much pleased with its appearance, that they purchased on sight one of these beautiful parlor ornaments.

A specimen copy of the Photograph Marriage Certificate will be carefully put up and sent by mail free, on receipt of the retail price, which is ONE DOLLAR.

DR. LEON'S

ELECTRIC HAIR RENEWER,

Is pronounced by all who have used it the very best preparation for the Hair. It is a positive cure for Baldness, eradicates Dandruff and Humors, stops the hair from falling out, and speedily restores Gray Locks to their original hue and luxuriance.

It operates on the secretions and fills the glands with new life and coloring matter. Thin, dead, faded or grey hair will always be brought back by a few applications, to its youthful abundance, vitality and color.

It makes the hair soft, glossy, fragrant, pleasant to the touch and easy to arrange. Dry, wiry and intractable locks become moist, pliant and disposed to remain in any desired position. As a Hair Dressing it has no equal.—The sales are enormous and it is a universal favorite with old and young of both sexes.
